SWEDEN TO FIRE ON RED PLANES

Bates Puts 'Partial Ban' on Gambling Devices

ORDER HITS AT NUMBERS, CARD GAMES, BOARDS

Chief Notifies Establishments Personally, Owners Say, But He Denies It.

SAYS HE GAVE NO ORDERS

Cards Bearing Word 'Jackpot' Included in Ban; Candy Boards Not Affected.

Although Police Chief Meade K. Bates flatly denied it, a partial ban on gambling and gambling devices was in effect today in Mansfield.

The order, which was carried to most of the places by the chief himself, according to proprietors, strikes at the numbers racket, one-ball marble machines, punch boards, card games, slot machines, and all games of chance except candy sheets. All cards bearing the work "jackpot" were specifically banned by Bates, owners reported.

Men working for the numbers houses said they had been warned to cease operations for a period of 30 days. Others said Bates had not specified a time limit, but had said they were to take everything off the counters except the candy boards.

Private clubs were not included in the gambling ban. At least they had not been notified at noon today.

Has 'No Knowledge' of Ban.

Questioned about his "one-man blitzkrieg" on gambling, Bates said this morning that he had not called on store proprietors, had given no orders and had no knowledge of such orders being given. Asked if his "war" would include horse book places, he countered with:

"I didn't know there were any being operated in Mansfield."

Patrolmen said they knew nothing of the gambling ban and had not warned places of business.

The order does not affect five-ball marble machines which have been designated "games of skill," but does hit at the one-ball machines, which pay off automatically in coins, in the manner of slot machines.

It is the first time in months that any effort has been made to stop the poker sheets, punchboards and numbers racket, according to men who operate them.

In no instance did Bates give any reason as to why he was "cracking down" now, telling them only to put their gambling devices away.

See 'Corsage' Of Vegetables At Gasco Meet

Steak baked with fresh vegetables, ground meat chops, cabbage stuffed with savory meat and vegetables dressed up as beautifully as a debutant's corsage, were paraded before the more than a thousand women who attended the second day's session of the Gasco Food Institute at the Ohio theater today.

The entire lower floor was filled with women interested in a "new deal" in winter menus. Miss Louise McFarland, lecturer and Miss Pauline Schofield, her assitant, conducted the session, with C. J. Mortley, Institute manager, taking the stage long enough to show what a mere man can do in whipping up fancy dishes.

The institute opened yesterday and continues through Friday. Tomorrow's program will be devoted to the theme "After Hours In The Kitchen." It will demonstrate how modernized kitchens have increased the pleasure in entertaining, and there will be suggestions for bridge luncheons, buffet suppers and dinners. Among the new recipes will be those for an "aprican" bread, with chopped apricots and pecans; an ice cream roll, a salad platter for buffet meals and a cucumber boat salad

Child Molester Active Again, Ninth Girl Picked Up, Driven Into Country

Week-Old Case Comes to Light But Police and Sheriff's Deputies Decline to Discuss It; Child, 7, Released Unharmed.

While sheriff's deputies and police refused to discuss the case, it was learned today that another schoolgirl—at least the ninth in the past 10 months—has been picked up by a child molester and driven into the country where she was released unharmed.

The latest incident—that of a seven-year-old Brinkerhoff pupil occurred last week. The man approached her in a westside residential district.

No report of the case has been recorded either by the sheriff's office or at police headquarters although officers have renewed their search for a man whose description answers that of one whose actions have been reported to authorities frequently since last April.

Several months ago two officers, a detective and deputy sheriff, were put on the case with order to "stay on" until the molester had been taken into custody.

As the result, Detective Lee J. Remy and Deputy Sheriff Glenn P. Freeman arrested George Call, of Vernon Junction, who was sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary for molesting at least three small schoolgirls in the southern part of the county.

The girl picked up last week, it was learned, had been taken to a lonely road off Marion avenue road about four miles from the city.

She told deputies who were called when she escaped and ran to a farmhouse that she was picked up by the man in an old coupe on Arlington avenue at 4:30 p. m. as she was on her way home from visiting a neighbor.

She told her parents that the man had offered her $1 to get into the car with him. This is the same method used in other molestings and which it is believed marks the suspect as the man who has confined his activities to picking up the young girls in Mansfield on their way to and from school.

C. C. Secrist, principal at the school, said that as a precautionary measure teachers had been instructed to warn the children against getting into automobiles with any strange persons.

BRITISH SEIZE AMERICAN MAIL

2,600 Pounds Taken From Clipper at Bermuda, Report.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—British marines seized 2,600 pounds of American mail from a Pan American Airways clipper at Bermuda Jan. 18, it was learned today.

Pan American has turned the whole question of British censorship over U. S. air mail at Bermuda over to Secretary of State Cordell Hull it was learned, and therefore was not in a position to discuss the incident.

Capt. Charles A. Lorber, in charge of the clipper invaded by the British marines, protested at the time to British authorities at Bermuda, it was explained.

PROBE 2 DEATHS

Police Checking New Link in 'Lovers' Lane' Slaying.

SAN MATEO, Calif.—(U.P.)—Officers today continued investigations of the "Lover's Lane" slaying of Mrs. Doris Clayton, 29, and the suicide of her employer in a tourist cabin.

Apparently after a struggle, Mrs. Clayton was shot in the head, her skull fractured and she was dumped from an automobile to the side of the road. Her body was discovered Tuesday.

Charles Souza, Oakland bill collector who had registered with a woman at a Gilroy tourist camp a week ago, returned alone Monday night. His body was found next day. He had taken poison before hanging himself.

A pair of spectacles found in the cabin were identified as Mrs. Clayton's about the time George Clayton identified his wife's body.

HOLDS OFFICIAL PAID ILLEGALLY

State Board Tells Kelley That LeMunyon, Sewer Head, Past Retirement Age.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley today was notified by the Public Employes Retirement board at Columbus that S. C. LeMunyon, superintendent of sewer maintenance, appointed Jan. 1 by Mayor William J. Locke when he took office, was illegally employed.

In a letter to the auditor who acts as agent for the board here, Wilson E. Hoge, board secretary, said that any payment of salary to LeMunyon was illegal

Hoge based his statement, he said, on LeMunyon's failure to file application to continue in service past the compulsory retirement age of 70.

He pointed out that LeMunyon was automatically retired on Dec 31, because of failure to have his application before the board before that time, as provided by law.

Kelley said that LeMunyon, a former state highway worker who quit his job to take over the sewer maintenance post, already has been paid six weeks' salary.

LeMunyon said he had filed an application to withdraw from the retirement system early in December in order to go to work for the city but that it was held up in Columbus and as a result he was employed by the city while still a member of the system.

He added that had the application been approved immediately, he could have started to work after having severed connections with the retirement board and would not have had to file an application to continue in service, which has now been held illegal.

LeMunyon claimed his withdrawal application was held up in Columbus because Ralph Hardy, Republican executive committee chairman, had entered his age as 64 at the time he was given a state job.

His correct age is 71.

Washington Kept Weather Data Up to Day of Death

Diary Shows First President Recorded Rain, Sleet and Snow That Preceded His Fatal Illness.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—George Washington, whose birthday anniversary occurs today, probably wrote more words about the weather than any man who ever lived save for a weather forecaster.

His diary, which he kept for 40-odd of his 67 years, often ran through stretches of a whole week during which only notes about the weather were recorded.

Probably the last thing he ever wrote was such a notation. It was on Dec. 13, 1799: "Morning snowing and about 3 inches deep. Wind at No. Et. and Mer. at 30. Contg. snowing til 1 o'clock, and abt. 4 it became perfectly clear. Wind in the same place but not hard Mer 28 at night. . . ."

The general had good reason to notice the snow that day. The previous day he had ridden out to his farms. Soon after he left Mt. Vernon, it began to rain, sleet and snow. He came in after a five hour ride, wet and covered with snow.

Dinner was waiting, and he ate without changing from his wet clothes Next morning, he complained of a sore throat and that evening he was very hoarse. He wakened Mrs. Washington in the night and told her he was ill, but would not let her get up in the chilly house for fear that she would catch cold

At daylight, a man was sent for a doctor. Then two others were summoned. Washington was bled, given hot applications, gargles, footbaths, and then bled again. He died about 10 o'clock that night.

Former Gov Martin L Davey will not speak in Mansfield Saturday night because there will be no Democratic rally here, Byron B. Ashbrook, Democratic candidate for the vacant 17th district congressional seat had decided today

Instead, the former governor will speak in Ashbrook's behalf at a rally at Ashland high school Saturday night

Plans for the meeting here were abandoned by Ashbrook late yesterday after a three-hour star chamber session at the courthouse with Richland county Democratic leaders who were opposed to the entrance of Davey into the special election campaign.

The meeting was called by John C. O'Donnell, executive committee chairman and G. A. Baer, central committee chairman, when it was learned that a rally had been proposed here by Ashbrook and that he had invited "big-time" political figures to address the audience in his behalf.

CHECK SCHOOLS

Mahoning Grand Jurors Probe 'Coercion, Intimidation.'

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—(AP)—Prosecutor William A. Ambrose is gathering further evidence to present to the Mahoning county grand jury so it may make a complete report on the conditions of "coercion and intimidation" which it has reported finding in the Campbell school system.

The grand jury heard considerable evidence last week when it began to go into alleged ballot tampering in the board of education contest in precinct B of Campbell's third ward.

In a preliminary report, the grand jury said this investigation "has broadened considerably and reveals some intolerable conditions in the management and control of the school system of Campbell, due to an utter lack of appreciation on the part of some board members of the sacredness of their trust."

REPARATION DEMANDED

Launches Program to Give More Aid to Finns Through Volunteer Troops.

(By United Press)

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — The Swedish northern army commander, under instructions from Stockholm, today ordered artillery and airplanes to destroy any Russian airplanes that violate the Swedish frontier.

Newspapers, charging that Russian planes could hardly have failed to know that they were bombing a Swedish town when they unloaded explosives on Pajala yesterday, said that the government had demanded full reparation and that the persons responsible for the attack must be punished.

"Sweden in her protest to Moscow must sharply demand that the persons responsible for this shameful attack be punished," the leading afternoon newspaper Aftonbladet said in reflecting the public anger against Russia.

At the same time, the Finnish aid committee announced that the volunteer aid, especially of a military nature, to Finland would be extended and would seek to draw in all classes of population in Sweden.

Set Up Training Camps.

Special training camps in Finland will be set up for volunteers who lack military training, the announcement said, although the Swedish government sought to adhere strictly to its official position of neutrality and non-intervention.

Press dispatches said that four Swedish volunteer pilots were engaged yesterday in a battle with Russian bombers, bringing down one Russian plane. The dispatches emphasized that the Swedish pilots had intercepted bombers returning toward the Russian base

LEAVE PRISON

Dahl, 7 Other Americans, to Start From Spain Soon.

(By Associated Press)

MADRID — The United States embassy announced today that the last eight American citizens held as Spanish Civil war prisoners, including Harold E. Dahl, Champaign, Ill., flier had been released and would start soon for home.

The release of these last prisoners who had fought for the defeated Republican government brought to an end a long diplomatic tussle in which the United States department had sought their freedom.

Dahl, who had been in custody since he parachuted to earth behind Nationalist Generalissimo Franco's lines on July 12, became the most widely-known American prisoner of the Spanish war as a result of his attractive blond wife's efforts to have him freed.

Dahl originally was marked for execution but he was spared from this penalty after Mrs. Dahl, a singer, sent a letter to Gen. Franco asking clemency. She enclosed a photograph of herself.

Captive Auto Showered With Cookies As It Crashes 5 & 10

A captive automobile hooked to the bumper of another car crashed through a large plate glass window of the Kresge store on North Main street last night and set the police of the state on the trail of a stolen car with Massachusetts license plates

A shower of glass and fresh macaroons which were in the window covered the car when it came to rest with its nose inside the window following a crash that could be heard all over the downtown district.

The driverless machine shot across the intersection of Main street at the northwest corner of Central park and smashed into the window, as the Massachusetts car, to which the riderless car had been hooked by the bumper, vanished around the corner and out Park avenue west.

The account of first presented a mystery to policemen who were in a chapel on North Park street when they heard the crash of splintered glass but it began to make sense after they had talked to several persons.

The car involved in the accident belongs to Charles Powell, 49 Elm street who had parked it on North Diamond street When he went to get it last night it was gone and he reported the theft to police

DIARY TELLS OF JOURNEY BY ILL-FATED SPEE

Ships Officer Gives Account of Raiding Prior to Flight.

(By Associated Press)

BUENOS AIRES — Leaves from the war diary of an officer aboard the Admiral Graf Spee disclose that Germany's ill-fated pocket battleship put to sea on Aug 21 two weeks before the start of the war with instructions to campaign against merchant shipping in the Atlantic if there should be war.

The account breaks off abruptly on Oct. 25, three weeks before three British cruisers forced the Graf Spee into Montevideo harbor, there to be scuttled by its own crew.

Some of the entries read:

"Sept 30 We are off the east coast of South America about 50 sea miles from Pernambuco 14.00 alarm British steamer in sight. Everyone goes to his battle station The ships aeroplane takes off and compels the steamer to stop

"When it lays alongside the boarding party examines the steamer The crew takes to the boats and abandons the ship to us The captain gives the order to sunk ner by torpedo Two torpedoes missed the mark and then the vessel was sunk with 'M A' and 'S A' (Apparently she Dore of two types.)

"The steamers name was the 'Clement,' built in 1931 of 5051 British tons register The cargo consisted of 500 tons of paraffin oil 500 tons of miscellaneous, and 750 tons of coal for her own use.

"The wireless station at Pernambuco was informed by wireless in order that the crew might be picked up by a steamer. On the same day we sighted a Greek vessel at 17:00 hours. After it had been searched, it was allowed to continue its voyage.

"Oct 7 We again sight an enemy vessel It is the Ashlea' After the boarding party had examined the ship, her crew was placed on the 'Newton Beech' At 11:00 hours she was sunk by means of explosive cartridges (bombs) The steamer was 1221 tons and carried 7,000 tons of sugar.

"Oct. 8—The crews of the 'Newton Beech' and of the 'Ashlea' were brought on board our ship at about 16:00 hours. The 'Newton Beech' was then sunk, as she was a hindrance to our operations.

"Oct 23 The aeroplane goes out and again finds us a vessel. We shape our course towards it, but could not reach it "In the afternoon at 21 00 hours, an alarm' An enemy ship is sighted It cannot be ascertained whether it is a warship or merchant ship As things were getting too hot for us in this zone of operation the captain was compelled to allow this ship to go its way.

"Oct 24—We go at high speed in order to disappear from this zone of operation As we have been warned of enemy warships, a full war watch is kept Anyone who sees an enemy aeroplane receives a reward of 30 marks from the captain.

"Oct. 25—We sail at high speed towards the east coast of South America."

COLD STORAGE, 107 BELOW ZERO, PRESERVES GERMS FOR SCIENCE

NEW YORK Sometimes it is desirable to preserve deadly germs for the sake of medical experiments

But this has been difficult with some bacteria because they would not exist outside a living animal

Cold storage at 107 degrees Fahrenheit below zero appears to be solving this problem. Human flu and syphilis have been kept alive now for three years in this solidly frozen state, at Johns Hopkins university.

The flu is caused by a virus and the syphilis by a germ but both keep equally well A number of other deadly germs and viruses have lived for three years in the same Johns Hapkins experiment.

Doctors say it is probable that other disease organisms generally can be preserved indefinitely by this intense cold

An amazing thing is that the germs which live at more than 100 below zero, often die or else lose their virulence if kept at only a few degress under zero.

The experimenters say the reasons why the milder freezing kills are not known They guess that the causes are chemical changes that go on slowly during freezing around zero

Chinese Claim Air Raids Took Toll of 45,000

PEKING — (NS) — Forty-five thousand Chinese civilian casualties, including 20,000 killed, represent the work of Japanese naval and army air raiders during the seven months from January to July, 1939, according to the Chinese aeronautical commission in Chungking.

In the same period Japanese aircraft dropped 32,000 bombs during 1,276 raids, the commission stated recently.

Some 64,000 houses were destroyed and 16,000 others partially damaged by Japanese bombs. Three hundred and eighty junks were blown to bits and 95 motor cars wrecked.

May was the most disastrous month of 1939. It is estimated that 14,000 people were killed in that month alone, chiefly through the concentrated Japanese raids on Shungking, war time capital of Nationalist China

One series of raids on May 1 is reported to have killed 1,572 civilians and wounded 3,637 others. On the day before, Japanese fliers succeeded in wrecking 900 houses in Chungking, followed by another 1,100 the next day.

Kwongtung Province claimed by the commission to ha met the greatest number of Japanese raids of any province. During the months' period reported, it withstood no less than 311 separate raids

The walls of ancient Alexandria in Egypt were six miles in circuit.

NEW GAME

Japs Develop Slugging Brand of Tennis.

PEIPING, North China (AP)—Japanese ingenuity has developed a new court game combining the main features of tennis with a bit of baseball slugging.

Unable to obtain standard tennis balls because of the wartime import restrictions, Japanese soldiers have substituted a soft rubber-covered sphere with a minimum of bounce. A wallop which would send a tennis ball a quarter of a mile, barely drives the new ball over the net. A high lob bounces about two feet off the court.

To keep the ball in play, the players have to slug away a la DiMaggio, hitting with one or two hands in what vaguely resembles a side-armed volley. The low bounce requires quick action and wide court covering.

The new ball will never be welcomed at Wimbledon, but it provides the Japanese with plenty of exercise for a small sum. The balls cost 10 cents each in local currency, compared with the price of $16 for three imported balls.

ASHLAND—Judgment for $3,149 is asked in common pleas court here in a suit filed by the Farmers and Savings bank of Loudonville against J. F. and Anna Bird. The amount is asked on a promissory note.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!
Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.
The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as ever did — even look healthy and strong, yet — you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.
Low blood count means you haven't enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And first as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.
Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

Old League Believes In American Castoffs.

ONE REASON many of the fans and most of the sports writers believe the American league is a faster and better circuit than the National is the way the latter circuit gobbles up American league castoffs to strengthen its teams. . . . The St. Louis Browns will do their training in Texas, while all the rest will work in either California or Florida. . . . The Sheik, otherwise known as Pete Marelia, who caused several near riots with his mat antics on grapple shows staged by Billy Ross, is reported to be studying chiropractic in Iowa. . . . Bob Feller, who won 55 games in his first four years with Cleveland, must average 24 victories a season for the next 19 years to equal record of Cy Young, who won 511.

Rain Threatens To Mar Derby

By ROBERT MYERS

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The sixth edition of the $50,000 added Santa Anita Derby drew a brilliant field of three-year-olds and the prospect of rain and a muddy track today.

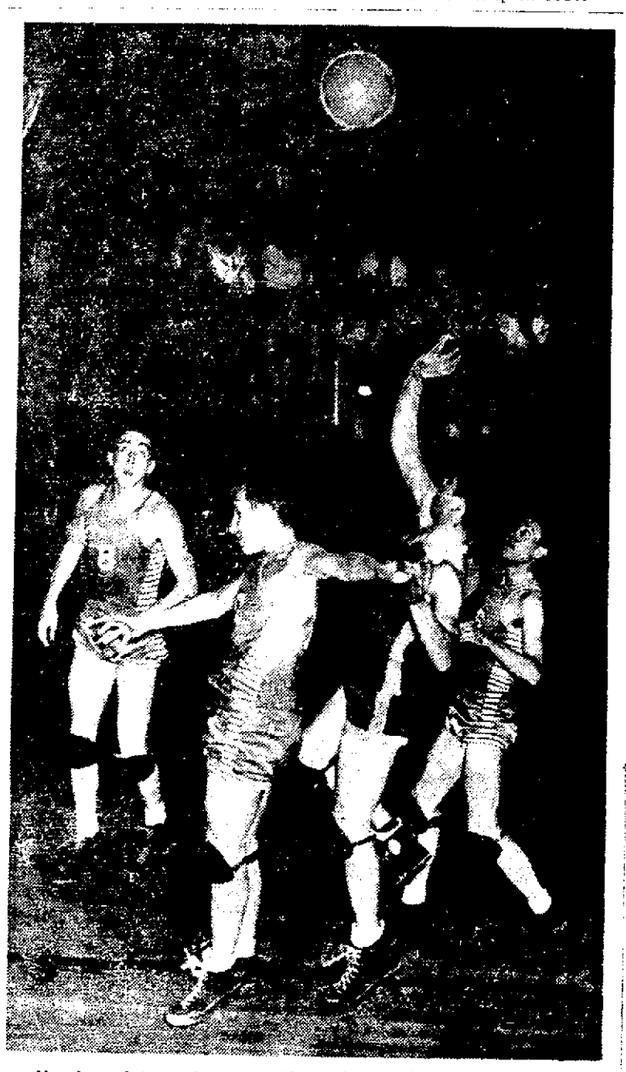
Turf experts reshuffled their cards as gloomy weather reports predicted a downpour from the skies before the colt and filly hopefuls parade to the post around 4:20 o'clock (PST).

* * * * *

Eighteen colts and two fillies were named through the overnight entry box, but it appeared that several short of this field would try for the rich prize in the mile and one-eighth feature of the holiday racing program.

* * * * *

The two fillies, the Foxcatcher Farm's Fairy Chant and Neil S. McCarthy's Augury, carried great favoritism off their past races in off-going, and it seemed safe to guess that one of the so-called weaker sex might triumph in the West's biggest derby attraction for the second straight year. Texas-bred Ciencia won the derby in 1939.



Here's a picture of some of the action in the Ontario-Plymouth tussle in the Richland county tournament at Senior high last night. Jack Elliott is shown as he attempts a one-hand push shot. The Plymouth players are Keith Kitchen (8), Richard Hoffman (6), behind Elliott, and Joe Moore (12) trying to break up the play. The Warriors rallied in the last period to defeat Plymouth, 27 to 23.

Favorites Happy Over First Win

There was plenty of cheering and back-slapping in the Bellville high dressing room after the highly-favored Bluejays trounced Shiloh, 35 to 22, in a first round county tournament game at the high school last night. Coach W. L. Miley is shown at the left congratulating Bill Martin and "Tick" Hamilton, left to right, two of his stars. Bellville is the county league champion.

Hipp's 674 Series High In City League

FARRELL HIPP and the Mansfielders held the spotlight in the City Class A league at the Meder alleys last night.

Starting out with games of 202 and 216, Hipp smashed out a brilliant 256 score to climax a 674 series, which featured the Mansfielders' 2915.

The Mansfielders, who finished their string with a 1052, won two games from the Lutz Lumbers, led to a 2736 by Jimmy Smith's 626, capped with a 245.

Rolling a middle 244, Art Thomas hit 630 to pace Weidner's Pontiacs to a 2777 count. This series, however, was good for only one win over the Long Bar, paced by Harold Selby's 605.

The Greystone Nite club came through with a 2734 count and a pair of wins over the Ingram-Martin Oldsmobiles.

P. Loegel of the Refrigeration No. 1 team smacked out a 621 for top honors in the Westinghouse league.

Whips Madison; Bellville Wins

Ontario, Lucas Win Other Berths In Saturday's Semi-Finals at High School.

By CHARLES MARTIN

A SHARPSHOOTING band of cagers from Bellville high sits in the favorite's throne as the Richland county Class B basketball tournament reached the semi-final stage.

But an obstacle in the form of Lexington high has suddenly appeared on the horizon to haunt the Bluejays.

The Bluejay clan looked like a champion as it walloped Shiloh high's Drummer Boys, 35 to 22, last night in the initial game at Mansfield high and the estimated 1,500 witnesses—the largest gathering ever to see an opening county tourney program—began thinking they couldn't be stopped.

And then the Minutemen zipped open their bag of tricks to topple a favored Madison five, 39 to 29, in the evening's final tilt, and the assemblage decided Bellville would have a battle on its hands providing both the clubs reached the finals.

There is, however, a pair of dangerous opponents standing in the way.

Ontario, which eliminated an erratic Plymouth high outfit, 27 to 23, stands in Bellville's path, while the Lucas Cubs, 39 to 35 winner over a stubborn Butler five last night, remains in Lexington's way.

The championship tussle and the consolation game will be held at Senior high Saturday night. The consolation affair is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

Coach John Rees' well-drilled court machine entered last night's show as underdogs and cries of joy came from the packed audience as it bounded into the lead in the first frame and continued to hit the net regularly to maintain it.

Connecting with six of their first 10 shots, the Minutemen employed a fast-breaking attack and ran wild after the intermission to pile up an advantage the Rams were unable to overcome.

With Nelson Reel, clever pivot man, pacing the attack with his spectacular hook shots, Lexington topped the Rams, 13-4, in the third stanza to gain an 11-point lead.

The Minutemen, who finished fourth in the county league race, broke fast under the basket to setup numerous "sucker" shots.

Madison, the runner-up in the county circuit title chase, had trouble locating the hoop all evening and if Doug DeNero hadn't been on one of his scoring sprees the Rams wouldn't have been in the ball game.

The lanky center tallied 16 points for individual honors, 14 of them coming in the first three frames.

Lexington played inspired ball, and the nifty ball-handling of the quint was a highlight of the affray.

Picking up a 10 to 4 lead in the first period, the Minutemen were ahead, 16 to 14, at the intermission, and held a 29 to 18 advantage as play opened in the final period. Reel topped the Minutemen with 13 tallies.

The Bellville cagers collected 11 or more points as the Bluejays turned back Shiloh. The contest started out to be a thriller, but Belleville's stout defense limited the Drummer Boys to one basket in the first half and the commanding lead it piled up was too much to overcome.

Shiloh knotted the score at 3-all early in the first chapter, but from there on in it was all Bellville.

Mentor W. L. Miley's proteges surged ahead, 10 to 3, in the opening period, were leading 17 to 5, at the rest period, and at the end of the third quarter were holding a 29 to 10 lead.

Bill Martin, the Bluejay's towering center, who controlled the rebounds throughout, paced his teammates with 11 tallies, while Don Palm and Howard "Tick" Hamilton trailed with 10 markers apiece. LeRoy McFadden, who scored the Drummer Boys' first two goals, was high for the losers with nine points.

Ontario and Plymouth put up a real fight in a rough and tumble setto. Five players, three from Ontario, left the game on fouls

LEXINGTON LOOMS AS MAJOR THREAT

before it was over.

The Warriors, who dropped their opening game of the season to Plymouth, started rushing the Tigers from the opening gun and threw a monkey wrench in the losers' passing attack.

Ontario, trailing 20 to 19, as play opened in the fourth quarter, allowed Plymouth a free throw and a fielder as they collected eight points to emerge with the decision.

The Warriors were behind, 7 to 4, in the first chapter, and 20 to 19, at the half. Dick Cassel led the winners with seven points.

Led by Robert Gilliland, Lucas staged a thrilling last-period rally to knock off Butler.

Trading, 26 to 30, the end of the third, the Cubs pumped in 13 markers to win.

The contest was a nip-and-tuck affair all the way. Butler was behind, 13 to 8, at the end of the first quarter, and 20 to 17, at the half.

Jack Wilson, who looked impressive, put the Bulldogs in the lead in the third with some clever side shots. Wilson set the individual pace with 12 points, while Gilliland tallied 9 for the winners.

Ray Caldwell To Pilot Sox

New Financial Setup Assures Fremont of Team.

FREMONT (U.P.) A new financial setup and appointment of Ray Caldwell, former major league pitcher, as manager today assured entry of Fremont in the 1940 campaign of the Ohio State baseball league.

Debts of the club were adjusted after Fremont officials learned there was danger of the franchise being moved to Marion.

* * *

Caldwell, 51, who hurled for the New York Yankees from 1911 to 1919 said he expected to move his family to Fremont from his present home at Lorain. After leaving the Yankees, Caldwell entered baseball's hall of fame in 1919 by pitching a no-hit, no-run game for Cleveland against his former mates. He retired from active baseball duty in 1931 after minor league terms with Kansas City, Little Rock and Birmingham. Caldwell succeeds James (Chappie) Geygan as Fremont pilot.

Phone Wonders to Be Demonstrated In Lecture Here

Waves, words and wires and what happens to any or all of them when joined with electricity will be demonstrated to a Mansfield audience Feb. 28 in Senior high school auditorium by Dr. J. O. Perrine of the department of development and research of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, New York City.

The lecture is sponsored by the Mansfield section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers with the co-operation of the Mansfield Telephone company and the Bell Telephone system which is supplying its facilities for a demonstration in speech transmission.

The demonstration equipment, especially designed and built for Dr. Perrine at the Belle Telephone laboratories, permits him to make a series of exhibitions of the wonders of modern telephone science.

Associate editor of the Bell System Technical Journal, Dr. Perrine, with the array of electrical devices which will be set up in the auditorium, will illustrate speech characteristics and produce a train of experiments which will demonstrate the work of telephone scientists in their efforts to improve the quality and extend the scope and usefulness of telephone service.

Admission to the lecture will be by ticket only, H. N. Dillar, 624 Scholl road said. They may be obtained by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to him or at the Tawse pharmacy.

DEVALERA FACES DOUBLE CRISIS

I. R. A. Fight for Independence and Neutrality Harass Ageing President.

(By Associated Press)

DUBLIN Tall, stooped, aging Eamonn De Valera, president of Eire, is struggling now with perhaps the greatest crisis of his life.

There is an old Irish saying that England's misfortune is Ireland's opportunity. That is behind the present activity of the I. R. A. Reliable estimates place its active members at not more than 2,000. But they are extremists, imbued with a hatred of the British and a fervent determination to end partition.

De Valera has taken stern measures to control them. An emergency powers act was passed under which political offenders could be interned without trial. It was declared unconstitutional and another act was brought in. Sixty or more known or suspected I. R. A. men were lodged in jail. Prison disturbances and hunger strikes have resulted.

Equally difficult for De Valera is the question of neutrality in the war.

Despite its independent status, Eire is linked closely economically with Britain, is dependent upon British shipping largely for raw materials and on the British navy for protection. Irish currency is tied to or actually supported by the English pound sterling. Eire must have sterling for purchases abroad.

Some business men believe the currency issue may prove the chief stumbling block to Eire's neutrality. Already British financial circles are reported to be concerned at the amount of sterling Eire requires for foreign purchases.

There apparently is little popular feeling in Eire for joining Britain in the war. Neutrality is popular—but it's a precarious type of neutrality and no one realizes it more than De Valera.

TALKS SELVES OUT OF HOSE

Viennese Woman Cause Arrest of Generous Merchant.

VIENNA—(AP)—Talkative women deprived themselves of the chance of buying silk stockings.

Othmar Taeubele of Vienna, owner of a dry-goods store, was well supplied with silk stockings when the rationing set in. Unable to withstand the plea of his fair sex customers, and in disregard of official orders, Taeubele freely sold his silk stockings.

This news spread rapidly all over town, making his business assume such proportions that the police became curious. As a result Taeubele was arrested and his store closed.

Under present regulations every German woman is entitled to buy only four pairs of stockings annually.

KNOX PAYS TOP BILL IN SPECIAL 17TH PRIMARY

Report Shows Election Cost It $6,250, Richland $5,440, District $25,829.

While Richland county was paying $5,440 for the special primary election in the 17th congressional district Feb. 6, it cost Licking and Knox counties considerably more than that, figures released by the secretary of state's office showed today.

Knox county, less populous than Richland, paid $6,250, more than any of the six counties which comprise the 17th district, a survey showed today. The election cost Licking county $5,960.

Coshocton county got off easiest with $2,544. Others included Delaware county, $2,635, and Ashland county, $3,000.

Seek to Trim Cost.

The cost was so high in some of the smaller counties that it is reported election officials will ask the secretary of state to permit the use of skeleton staffs at voting booths at the special election next Tuesday

Cost per vote in Richland county was $1.22, higher than the average in the district which was $1.06. Total cost of the primary in the district was $25,829.

In the 22nd district which had a special primary at the same time, the per vote cost was $2.30 and the total expense, $46,000. Cuyahoga county alone paid $10,000 of that amount. Lake and Geauga, smaller counties in the district, made up the rest.

GERMANS USE RESIN TOOLS

Bricklayers' Equipment Made by Treating, Pressing Paper.

BERLIN—(AP)—Artificial resin, one of Germany's most widely used "Ersatz" materials, has now been put to use to make bricklayer's tools.

Bricklayer's floats, darbies, water levels, and so on, made of this synthetic product are reported to be much lighter and more durable than the same tools made out of wood.

The basic material of these new tools is paper which, after being soaked with synthetic resin, is subjected to an enormous pressure.

Pledge of Allegiance To Flag.

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

It appears, in the final analysis, that football is necessary in colleges so that coaches can be trained to teach football.

An astrologer has warned President Roosevelt that he can't get a third term—but Jim Farley's views probably count for more.

So Fritz Thyssen, the great German industrialist, has been driven into exile and his property confiscated. Hitler, like Stalin, insists on "liquidating" his ablest men.

Advises Labor to 'Clean House'

A TELLING commentary on the times is that many of labor's most militant friends are urging working men to break the hold of labor racketeers.

A recent long editorial in the New Republic, entitled "Labor Must Clean House," provides an example of this attitude as the New Republic is generally known to be extremely liberal in policy. It said this: "Responsible union men should, without waiting for the government to push them, do away with jurisdictional disputes. They should end the restrictive and sometimes conspiratorial practices which keep prices high and prevent the introduction of new products. . . . Next, the racketeering leaders should be swept aside and the racketeering unions with them. The kind of labor movement this country needs should have no place for a leader who talks about a prison sentence for having been a pander, as a mere boyish peccadillo, or turns up with thousands of dollars of income that he can't explain. . . . If labor doesn't clean its own house, the job will be done by someone else in a way that neither labor nor its friends will like."

Labor—legitimate, honest labor, that wants to make progress—never was given better advice than that. And it is significant that it comes in this case from the "left" rather than the "right." Labor racketeering has already disgusted a large portion of the people. It has bred distrust, fear and hatred. Long enough continued, it is the surest possible way to bring about a reaction that, to quote the New Republic once more, would see "the trade-union movement in this country set back a generation."

Observance of Brotherhood Week

AMONG human traits which some people find it difficult to successfully combat is that of intolerance—a belief that they are "right" and that, therefore, others of conflicting views are "wrong," or that, basically there are "superior" and inferior" people.

That, through the ages of advancing civilization, some people have had advantages over others cannot be doubted. This has come about through environment, heredity, educational opportunities, and in a variety of ways not influenced by those of the present generation who are the beneficiaries of widely varied mental and physical legacies.

In more than a thousand American communities this week there is observance of annual Brotherhood week, which was established eight years ago as a period during which people of Protestant, Roman Catholic, Greek Catholic and Jewish faiths can join in programs re-dedicating themselves, as President Roosevelt said, "to the proposition that all men are brothers, that religious prejudice and group intolerance may not destroy that unity in freedom which is the strength of our national character."

A distressing phase of intolerance is that so much of it has had to do with religion and race, in both of which divine providence has been the controlling factor rather than individual choice.

The quarrel, then, is with that Supreme Power which peopled the earth with human beings of varied colors and beliefs, rather than with the individuals, groups and nations that constitute the human family.

The abstractions of brotherhood, tolerance and freedom are quite generally applauded—but it is not easy to translate these abstractions into daily practice.

An interesting thought is that all groupings of specific religious beliefs are minorities—and that the evils of intolerance might as easily be visited upon their group as upon any other. The seeds of intolerance produce strange and sometimes terrible crops—as is now being demonstrated in Europe.

The essential rules of religion are much alike—in each there is some form of the Golden Rule as a guide to behavior, and in all religions are certain underlying principles intended to influence behavior and emphasize spiritual values.

No better exemplification of the benefits of religious understanding can be found than in the sincerity with which each person adheres to the teachings of his own faith and the tolerance which he accords others in their equal privilege of religious freedom.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—A few years ago, when his were plenteous on Broadway and he was among the top flight producers, Earl Carroll was summoned by Jersey officials and asked to design a new uniform for the New Jersey state police. They wanted something with verve and dash, something military and snappy, something that would knock your eye out. They got it. Today N. J. troopers acknowledge preeminence to no outfit, not even to the famed Canadian mounties with their scarlet tunics and white-brim Stetsons. Coming upon a squad of them unawares is like running into a road company of the Student Prince.

I mention this because it seemed curious at the time, and still does, that a sister state should come to Broadway for a man to streamline their state troopers.

But apparently Broadway producers have what it takes. A little while ago the New York Post, one of the oldest of the great metropolitan daily newspapers, delivered itself into the hands of Norman Bel Geddes, himself a producer of note.

"Make me over," it said. "Lift my face and change my personality. You can change everything about me except my name and my editorial policy. Departmentalize me, and paint my nails. Make me easy on the eyes."

So Geddes, a printer's devil at heart any way, and also an artist of imagination, took the Post in hand, and today its only remaining features that are recognizable are its liberal views and its bylines. Whether the new format is a success or not is for the man on the street to decide. He is the fellow who steps up to the counter and lays down his three cents. But in any case, here is an event in the history of metropolitan newspapers, and, as such, should not go unsung.

SUZANNE SILVERCRUYS, whose studios afford a wonderful view of the park and who has been interested in religious art ever since her statuette of Saint Therese was accepted by the Church of the Saint at Lizieux in France, is now busily arranging a special exhibit of religious art for the spring. It is being sponsored by Fordham university, and this is the first time any Catholic organization in New York has sponsored a single contemporary artist. Too she has a lecture tour on tap, and her lectures are popular because she always plucks some listener from the audience and sculptors him, or her, right there before her wide-eyed friends. But despite her crowded schedules, she took time out recently to become the bride of Ned Stevenson, New York promoter and advertising man.

NOMINATIONS for the Most Undisciplined Mind in Radio are now in order. I nominate Raymond Scott. Why? In his quieter moments he composes such thoughtful little nocturnes as "Dinner Music for a Pack of Hungry Cannibals," and now you tell me why he shouldn't have it.

Scott's "quintet," which always really has been a six man outfit, is now a 14-piece band. Been experimenting with it for a year, and his first Columbia recordings are "Huckleberry Duck" and "Just a Gigolo."

Whatever became of that word anyway? A few years ago gigolo was everywhere. It came up like a squall, and passed as quickly. But while it was here it was strong enough to inspire a movie and a song that became a hit.

Why Are Women Like That?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SHE'S over forty. And her husband can't understand her. She cries and storms. She sulks and goes into Big Silences. She looks with black suspicion at other women. And when these diversions pall, threatens to kill herself in highly spectacular manners.

All because, sez she, her husband doesn't love her any more.

"But," cries that badgered and bewildered gentleman, "I do love her. What more can I do to prove it? Haven't I taken care of her and the kids for 15 years—hardly taken a day off from my job and never looked at another woman? Don't I come home regularly every night and give her every cent I earn? If that isn't love, for Pete's sake, what is?"

Yet, Milady still wails and mopes and plans dramatic surprises. So having been a woman now and then myself, I have decided to let him, and all other Heckled Husbands, in on certain vital statistics. If they weren't such dumb clucks they would have discovered these facts for themselves long since. But, being what they are, here goes:

WHY do middle-aged wives act up like this?

Every male thinks he knows the answer. Man, being God's best treat for Womankind (he admits it himself) and the Dear Little Woman being naturally "just made for love" and Nothing Else. But, these tantrums must rise from a hungry heart. So even if she hurls the radio or swallows the bath salts, the poor guy believes he can still pin a few wreaths on himself—for she's doing it just because she dotes on him.

Whereupon I reply in language unbefitting a lady. Piffle! Baloney!

The Dear Little Woman throws her tantrums because she has a hungry heart. It is true. But her heart isn't hungry the way you think it is, Brother. She isn't raising all this rumpus because she wants her Love's Old Sweet Song. She's raising it because she's furious and broken-hearted for the power she once had and which has now departed.

Why does a withering woman of forty-long to be a starry-eyed young thing of 17, or a radiant queen of 30? Is it because love, in itself, was her favorite dish? No, it is because love was power: romance gave her her greatest moment of triumph, perhaps her only moment of importance in all her career.

And there was never a woman—no matter how mousey, meek her exterior, who did not crave power with all the ferocity of a Bengal tigress on the prowl. A fact which man, in his fatuous egotism, largely overlooks. And what a beating he wishes on himself by so doing!

So John Henry slaves through devoted years, hands over all he earns, trudges home faithfully each night and gets 57 varieties of tantrums from the Missus as a reward. But why? Because the Missus doesn't want a devoted slave who trudges home every night and reads his newspaper in his bedroom slippers.

She wants what she had at 17 or 30—some proud, snorting, elusive wild man whom she can conquer and subjugate—and then crow over her triumph.

She wants to queen it again . . . strut her stuff . . . hunt her quarry and lick her chops like the Bengal tigress which she is.

What's wrong with marriage today? That's what's wrong! It is founded on the entirely false assumption that women prefer candy hearts to those normal adventures, crusades and battles which are as right as red-blooded human beings.

Once, before the Machine Age robbed women of their industrial importance and the pride and power which went with it had enough adventure to satisfy them when their thrill of romance had passed, but now that man has taken up woman's ancient chores, she is on the loose.

And today, through every matinee and hotel lobby, around every bridge table and into every fashion show prowl the dispossessed females—thinking up new ways of raising Cain.

Give women adventure. Give them an appropriate place in industry and civic life. Free their terrific leashed power—their dramatic hunger and wild unrest. Find for them some more two-fisted job than making gelatine pudding or shaving their husband's necks. Do this and they'll cut out their tantrums and suicides pronto.

P. S. But if you think I mean by this, girls, that I'm suggesting that one of us should be elected President of the United States or mayor or governor, you're completely mistaken. Jobs big enough to fit our measure and goals tall enough to make us rise to our heights, but never, pray Allah, such power over the American voter as we now hold over our cowed and crucified men.

What is all this fuss about the special election cost in the 17th and 22nd congressional districts? Article 1, Section 2 of the United States Constitution makes the calling of special elections to fill congressional vacancies mandatory upon governors. It reads, "When vacancies occur in the representatives from any state the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies."

If those people who are all "het up" about the expense of this special election would get busy on curtailing unnecessary expenses at Washington, some real money might be saved for the poor forgotten taxpayer.

Health And Diet

Medicine's Early Start In America.

—By DR. CLENDENING

I HAVE been on a sightseeing trip in Mexico. All my sightseeing jaunts include observations on the medical life of a country—past and present—and I found a great deal of material in Mexico.

In Mexico City is the oldest hospital on the North America continent—the Hospital of Jesus of Nazareth. It was founded by Cortez, the conqueror of Mexico, in 1524. Built on the site of the meeting of Montezuma and Cortez, it has served both the native Indian population and the Spanish settlers alike since the day of its origin, over 400 years ago.

The institution was first called the Hospital of Our Lady of the Conception, from the church of which it was a part. The church is still standing alongside the hospital. The ashes of Cortez once reposed in this church. Cortez directed in his Last Will and Testament that the hospital and church should be finished at his cost. The hospital has been maintained by Cortez descendants to this day.

Spanish Colonial Design.

The interior courts of the hospital are fine examples of Spanish Colonial architecture.

On a plaque on the wall at the bottom of the staircase the inscription states that two physicians, Don Juan de Correra and Don Andres Martinez, performed human anatomies (dissections for educational purposes) beginning in 1643, certainly the earliest medical instruction given in North America.

One might get the impression that the hospital today is a primitive structure, of interest only to the archeologist, but such is not the case. Although preserving the original building as much as possible, modern wings have been added, so that in all departments today is presents a thoroughly up-to-date appearance. The large well-lighted and well-equipped operating rooms and laboratories are the epitome of the latest advances in medical and surgical progress.

Contributed Herbs.

In the early days of its existence the Mexican natives made contributions of healing herbs. Quinine for malaria was an American drug. Besides that the Indians prepared and knew the uses of cascara sagrada, Chenopodium (used today for intestinal parasites), Peruvian balsam, sarsaparilla, Tolu and cannabis indica also were New World drugs. In the great garden of Montezuma there were to be found, according to Prescott, any herbs desired by physicians. There were remedies against bleeding, dysentery, parasites, skin and eye disease; in fact, one or more plants for every disease.

Cortez was so impressed by the skill of the Aztec medicine men that after the battle of Otumba he wrote his master, Charles V, that there was no use sending Spanish physicians to the New World. There is a street set apart for the sale of herbs, where can be found every sort of root and medicinal herb grown in this country. There are houses like apothecary shops where prepared medicines are sold as well as liquids, ointments and plasters."

A beautiful portrait of its founder, Hernando Cortez, hangs in the board room of the modern hospital.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—There was a great deal more than appeared in the headlines behind the Swedish announcement of no help to Finland. Actually, the Swedes were ready to go much further, even throw their whole weight into the war against Russia. But they got no encouragement from the Allies.

What happened was this. On Feb. 7, Daladier and Chamberlain met in Paris, where the French premier urged that the Allies come to the immediate rescue of Finland with actual troops. He pointed out that Finland was sure to crumble unless she received material aid, and that with the German and French armies stymied along the West Wall, it would be a good idea to create a second front where the armies could get at each other.

Chamberlain said he would take the matter under consideration and went back to London.

Next day, the Swedes and Norwegians informed the Allies that since it would take some time for French and British troops to reach Finland, they—the Scandinavians—would be willing to give immediate and major aid to Finland provided they had a hard-and-fast pledge from the Allies that they would support them in case Germany attacked from the rear.

In other words, the Scandinavian countries would throw their armies outright into the war against Russia and the French and British would send troops to help keep the Germans out of Scandinavia.

This also Chamberlain took under advisement.

British Procrastination.

A WEEK dragged by. Part of another week. Confidential reports from the Finnish front for some time told that the Mannerheim Line was crumbling. Finnish troops were exhausted. They had been fighting continually with almost no rest.

However, Chamberlain and the British cabinet still debated.

Meanwhile the Nazis had learned what was being proposed, and began to bring pressure on Sweden and Norway. They were warned that co-operation with France and Britain in aiding Finland would bring a direct attack on them by Germany.

The Swedes and Norwegians, however, still waited for London. Finally, last week, Chamberlain acted. But all he did, however, was permit recruiting of British volunteers to Finland. This was so mild a move compared with what was discussed, that the Swedes disgusted.

The risk of war with Germany without Allied aid was too much. Sweden announced that she could not aid Finland.

War Notes.

SWEDEN is now dickering with Germany regarding aid to stop Russia, when and if that country moves through Finland and tries to overrun Sweden . . . Germany doesn't want Russia in Sweden any more than she wants the British there—in fact she would like to dominate Sweden herself. Result is that the Nazis are driving a hard bargain. They propose to stop Russia if Sweden will sell all her high grade iron ore to Germany, none to Britain . . . Britain may have let the Finns down, but it was Britain also who coked up the Finns last October and encouraged them not to yield to Russia.

"Dewey Unlaxed."

WHEN Tom Dewey arrived in Portland, Oregon, for his Lincoln day address, he called a press conference and told assembled journalists the first thing they would tackle was the pictures. He posed for several flashes, then announced that the press conference proper would start.

However, one photographer, Ralph Vincent of the Portland Journal, took a few additional candid camera shots, to which Dewey objected.

"See here, young man," said the youngest presidential candidate, "I can't unlax as long as you keep snapping those things in my face."

Unabashed, the irrepressible Vincent, turned to Lem Jones, Dewey's secretary. "That's what I like about Roosevelt," he barked in a stage whisper. "He co-operates."

Republican Chaff.

ALL state delegations at the Republican national committee meeting voted en bloc during the balloting for a convention city, except South Carolina . . . "Tieless Joe" Tolbert of Ninety Six, S. C., most colorful figure at the meeting, voted for Chicago while his daughter, Julia Tolbert, a national committeewoman, cast her ballot for Philadelphia . . . Joe Pew, Pennsylvania's oil magnate GOP boss, was boasting about the advantages the Republican convention will bring to Philadelphia . . . "We'd a thousand times rather play host to the Republicans than the Democrats," he said. "Republican convention delegates are better heeled on the whole than the Democrats and spend three times as much money. Democratic delegates are usually poor boys who have to watch their pocketbooks."

Third Term.

THE recent Republican national committee meeting in Washington gave no indication of a swing to any one GOP presidential candidate but party chieftains have made up their minds about the man they will have to beat in November.

The GOP high command is going seriously on the assumption that President Roosevelt will seek a third term and is mapping campaign plans accordingly. This was the keynote of the national committee meeting here, the specter that haunted every discussion behind closed doors, over luncheon tables, tavern bars and in hotel lobbies.

Omens which have influenced this conclusion in the minds of party leaders are: First — the president's switching of the Thanksgiving date. GOP heavy thinkers argue that in breaking this "sacred" tradition Roosevelt was "conditioning" the voting public for the overturn of another.

Second—the "weak sister" type of Democratic candidates, being promoted as Roosevelt successors. Some GOP-ers believe that Hull, McNutt, et al, are "clay pigeon" candidates put up for purposes of "unflattering comparison" with the president.

Another third term harbinger raised in executive session of the national committee is the "waning hope for peace" in Europe, which plays right into the hands of third term advocates.

SWEDEN ORDERS TROOPS TO FIRE ON RED PLANES and Petsamo and therefore probably engaged the planes that had bombed Pajala.

The commander in chief of the northern forces announced that the Swedish air force would enter into action immediately if foreign planes again cross the frontier of Sweden.

Following a Russian bombing of the Swedish frontier town of Pajala yesterday, it was reported in the Stockholm press that the government had asked full compensation for damage done to property in its protest to Moscow.

Bolster Air Defenses.

Meantime, precautionary measures were ordered. The commander-in-chief of the northern army corps, stationed adjacent to Finland, received strict orders for reinforcement of the air defenses.

The orders said that live shells must be used in firing at any Russian planes which violate Swedish territory.

Recently, Sweden has greatly strengthened its land defenses in the area adjacent to the Finnish frontier, turning the Boden military area into an armed camp.

Asserting that a Russian airplane bombing of Pajala was "one of the greatest violations of neutrality ever seen," the newspaper Stockholms-Tidningen said today that the government in a protest to Russia had asked full compensation for damage done to Swedish property.

"Sweden still wants peace and so does all of Scandinavia," said the newspaper. "However, it is certainly darkening up here and perhaps all neutrals in the near future will have to make serious decisions."

Of the raid, the newspaper commented:

"Inhabitants of the small Swedish town of Pajala yesterday got a serious warning from a possible 'new neighbor.' Fortunately the Russians did not succeed in killing anyone but the raid caused heavy damage."

Local reports were that seven Russian planes dropped about 137 bombs on the town, slightly damaging a church and a small unoccupied hospital room and setting fire to four houses of which two were destroyed.

The plane raid came shortly before a debate in parliament on the government's policy in publicly refusing official aid to Finland, a debate which resulted in a vote of confidence in the government's "real" policy. The reservation that the policy had not been presented to the public in proper form was implied, however.

Finns Claim Russia Rail Attack Repulsed.

HELSINKI—(AP)—A Red army attack near the Kamara railway station, a communication center 12 miles southeast of Viipuri on the Karelian isthmus, was repulsed, the Finnish high command reported today.

The Russians lost 2,000 dead in continued fighting at Taipale, at the eastern end of the isthmus defense line, the communique declared.

Today's was the first admission by the Finns that fighting had reached the neighborhood of Kamara, although the Russians previously had reported their forces driving through that station on the main isthmus railway to Viipuri.

176 Finnish Forts Captured, Reds Say.

MOSCOW —(INS)— Capture of 176 Finnish defensive fortifications between Feb. 19 and 21 was claimed by Soviet military authorities today.

A Russian war communique, announcing occupation of the forts, also claimed that 16 Finnish war planes were shot down in air combats.

"There was nothing of importance at the front," the military bulletin stated.

(Yesterday's Russian communique stated that Red army forces had captured the Finnish Koivisto fortress at the western end of the Mannerheim line. This claim was flatly denied by military officials at Helsinki.)

LONDON —(INS)— A communique issued at Moscow indicates that Soviet troops will unleash a terrific attack against the Finnish city of Viborg (Viipuri) tomorrow in an attempt to gain a great victory on the anniversary of the founding of the Russian Red army, the London Daily Express said today.

The newspaper quoted the Tass (Russian) news agency as stating that "the Red army has now decided to break the Mannerheim line completely."

2 German Planes Shot Down, British Say.

LONDON —(AP)— The air ministry announced that two German warplanes had been shot down by British fighters today, one off the northeast coast and the other near St.-Abb's Head, Scotland.

The ministry issued two communiques, the first stating: "An enemy aircraft was engaged and shot down by Royal Air Force fighter aircraft off the northeast coast shortly after midday today."

Shortly afterward came the second:

"A second Heinkel (German bomber), attacked by Spitfires of the fighter command, crashed today on land near St. Abb's Head."

Rumania Speeds Up Military Steps.

BUCHAREST —(AP)— Rumania ordered her already large military preparations speeded up today following authoritative reports that Germany was challenging the government's ban on export of aviation gasoline to the reich.

Dr. Karl Clodius, German economic expert, is expected here Monday for showdown conversations to insist on full delivery of Germany's 1940 quota of oil and oil products. Meanwhile, the government ordered many of 200,000 reservists originally called for March 1 to start reporting immediately to concentration centers, it was learned.

Effective March 1, Rumania will have 1,600,000 men under arms—virtually general mobilization without being so labelled. Railways now are jammed with reservists moving toward frontiers and with long trainloads of tanks, armored cars and artillery.

The arrival of Dr. Clodius will coincide with the start of Rumanian trade conversations here with Italy, understood also to be seeking a share of this country's oil exports.

Germany, it was said, will challenge a Rumanian ban on shipments of high test aviation gasoline to the reich—a measure which Rumania was reported to have taken to placate Great Britain and France.

The German attitude toward Rumania and all southeastern Europe will depend on the outcome of Clodius' talks, these informed quarters predicted.

It was understood that a government decree banning the fuel which Germany needs for her machines of war had been issued —this in direct contradiction to a recent oil export agreement with Germany.

ocratic leaders considered the rally useless since two meetings were held in the county last week.

Arrangements were made by one of Ashbrook's representatives, he said.

Admits Planning Meeting.

Capt. Victor Hunt Harding, executive secretary of the National Congressional campaign committee who came here from Washington to take charge of Ashbrook's campaign admitted yesterday that he had planned the Mansfield rally without first consulting leaders here.

At Kent yesterday, Davey's secretary, Mrs. Myrna Smith, said that he had received a personal invitation Monday to speak here Saturday.

A telegram from Mrs. Smith today said that Davey would appear in Ashland Saturday night. He is also scheduled to speak in Ashbrook's behalf Friday at Newark, and Coshocton and Monday at Mt. Vernon and Delaware.

While Democratic leaders were settling the misunderstanding, J. Harry McGregor of Coshocton county, Ashbrook's Republican opponent, yesterday received the endorsement of two war veterans groups.

The Licking county unit of the War Veterans Republican club in Newark pledged to back McGregor, a similar announcement having been made earlier by the Mansfield group.

At the same time the Republican nominee received letters of congratulations from U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, and L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange.

Meanwhile J. E. Ringler of Savannah, Ashland county Townsendite who was refused a place on the congressional ballot as an independent, today announced his candidacy for county representative to the state assembly.

Ringler already has petitions in circulation, he said, because "so many" of his friends insisted upon him running for office.

AID DOUBTFUL

WPA Refuses to Give Shelby Definite Word on Project.

SHELBY—It remained doubtful today whether WPA officials would approve a project for the proposed subway under the West Smiley avenue crossing of the New York Central railroad for which voters here passed a $43,000 bond issue last year, Mayor W. R. Morris revealed.

With the cost estimates of the project higher than the amount of the bond issue, Mayor Morris and City Engineer Boyd Weirman of Mansfield, who prepared the estimated costs, conferred with WPA officials in Columbus this week to find out if WPA would sponsor the project.

Following this conference, Mayor Morris today said "if the city can get cooperation on certain matters from the railroad company, WPA would consider the project." The "certain matters" discussed at the conference were not disclosed by Mayor Morris. Under revised estimates the cost of the project was raised to $90,000 under WPA and lowered to $63,000 if built by private contractors.

M'CREA ELUDES POLICE SEARCH

Detroit Prosecutor Indicted on Gambling Conspiracy Charge by One-Man Jury.

the scandal, was ordered to arrest him.

The indictments were the outgrowth of an investigation of relations between officials and the underworld, begun six months ago after Mrs. Janet McDonald, a lottery operator, had killed herself and said in a suicide note that her lover, William McBride, was a "pay-off man" for gamblers buying protection.

McBride later died in Florida.

Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson, sitting as a one-man grand jury, returned the indictments. A special prosecutor, Chester P. O'Hara, presented the evidence and announced that the 19 indictments were "only a starting gun, and a pop-gun at that."

McCrea, before he vanished yesterday, recommended in Recorder's court that O'Hara be charged with attempted extortion. He charged that O'Hara had threatened to injure John L. Lovett, general manager of the Michigan Manufacturers' association, unless Lovett recommended that the Michigan Consolidated Gas company pay O'Hara $1,500 to settle a suit pending against it. The suit was filed by two men claiming to have obtained a reduction in the gas company's personal property assessment. Lovett had not signed a complaint against O'Hara and Judge John V. Brennan reserved decision on McCrea's recommendation.

The charges against the officials and others concerned the operations of the national sports junior baseball pool, which Judge Ferguson said did a $1,000,000 annual business and had 2,200 employes.

Named, in addition to McCrea and Colburn, were Fred W. Frahm, who was fired from the police superintendent's job Jan. 13 in an earlier phase of the investigation and who was also missing today; Lieuts. Clyde Ranney and James Dooley of the police department; Special Investigators James Bennett and John E. Mulligan of the prosecutor's office; Victor C. Beresford, crime reporter of the Detroit News, who was named as a witness and released in $1,000 bond; Frank A. Piscopink, safe operator, and several John Does. All officials named were alleged to have received money from the baseball pool operators.

CHASE MAD DOG

Pittsburgh Police, Citizens Kill Canine Which Bit 18.

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— In an impassioned four-hour chase that had touches of the old "Wild West" days, a score of policemen and some 50 shouting civilians ran down and killed last night a dog, believed mad, which bit 18 persons.

More than 50 shots were fired at the animal as it led pursuers up and down icy, hilly streets in the Overbrook and Carrick residential sections, in a wild scene uncommon to city streets.

As cries of "mad dog" were broadcast, citizens armed with any weapon at hand—ranging from baseball bats to shotguns—left their homes to join firemen and patrolmen racing after the fleet animal, which left women and children bitten and screaming in its path.

When police finally cornered the dog, a shotgun blast failed to bring him down. But one shot from the revolver of another officer did the trick.

GO TO CAMP HAND

SHELBY—Members of Troop 1 of the Boy Scouts will leave Friday afternoon for their week-end camping trip to Camp Avery Hand, jr., southeast of Mansfield. The scouts will be accompanied by Scoutmaster Henry Betts and Assistant Scoutmaster Gene Taber.

police that they had been driving on North Diamond and saw an auto bearing a Massachusetts license going south on North Diamond and that hooked to its rear bumper was the Powell car. Other witnesses said the out of state car came around the park towing another auto and that as it made the turn onto Main, heading south, the Powell car broke loose and shot across the intersection into the Kresge window.

The other car did not stop but proceeded out Park avenue west. A radio call from Akron this morning said that a car answering that description had been stolen there last evening.

Police expressed the opinion today that it would have been impossible for the car in front to have hooked onto the Powell car accidentally and towed it all the way up the North Diamond street hill and around the park without the driver being aware of it.

FOOD LECTURER USES OLD AND NEW RECIPES AT FIRST SESSION

Recipes used yesterday by the Gasco Food Institute were both old and new and provided some excellent ideas for breakfast dishes. Miss Louise McFarland, lecturer at the institute, prepared the following dishes at the first session of the three-day cooking school yesterday at the Ohio theater:

Toast.

For toast which is soft in the center, preheat the broiler for 5 minutes, with the thermostat set at 550 degrees. Arrange the bread on the broiling rack. Place the rack about 2 inches below the flame. When the bread has browned on one side, turn and brown on other side. For toast which is hard all the way through, the broiler does not need to be preheated. The thermostat should be set at 350 degrees, and the broiler rack should be about 2½ inches from the flame.

Blueberry Muffins.

2⅔ cups sifted flour
1 cup fresh blueberries
2⅔ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
4 tablespoons butter or other shortening
⅓ cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten

Sift flour once and measure. Combine berries with ⅓ cup flour. Sift remaining flour with baking powder and salt. Cream butter, add sugar gradually and cream well. Add egg. Add flour alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat well after each addition. Fold in berries. Bake in greased muffin pans in hot oven (425 degrees) 25 minutes. Makes 18 medium-sized muffins.

Cooked Cereal.

When cooking breakfast cereals, bring the salted water to a boil, add cereal and allow it to boil for a minute or two. Then cover the pan and let it cook over a simmer flame for the rest of the time. It is a good practice to follow closely the directions as given on the package. The following table will serve as a guide depending on the number to be served:

Corn meal: 1 cup raw; 2 teaspoons salt; 6 cups water; quantity, 3½ cups.

Cream of wheat: 1 cup raw; 1½ teaspoon salt; 4 cups water; quantity, 4 cups.

Rolled oats: 1 cup raw; 1½ teaspoons salt; 3 cups water; quantity, 3 cups.

Spaghetti and macaroni: ½ lb. raw; 2 teaspoons salt; 12 cups water; quantity, 2 cups.

Fried Breakfast Oatmeal.

Pack left-over oatmeal in well-greased loaf pans. Chill for several hours or overnight. Cut in slices or squares, dip in beaten egg, then in flour or corn meal and pan-fry on both sides until well browned. If desired, left-over meat may be ground and added to the oatmeal before chilling, using about 1 cup of ground meat to 1 quart of the cooked cereal.

French Toast Cakes.

1 egg
½ cup milk
Jam
⅛ teaspoon salt
3 slices bread
Powdered sugar

Beat egg, add milk, and salt. Dip bread in mixture. Brown both sides in butter in skillet. Spread jam (or jelly) between three slices—stack—and cut in triangular shapes. Decorate with powdered sugar or jelly.

"Pam" Cakes.

6 slices baked ham (thinly sliced)
1 recipe plain griddle cakes
¼ teaspoon salt (if using prepared flour)

Add salt to batter. Dip ham slices, one at a time, in batter so that they are evenly coated and fry on griddle.

Egg-in-a-Frame.

4 slices bread
4 tablespoons butter
4 eggs
Salt and pepper
8 slices bacon

Cut slices of bread in large rounds. Tear a small opening in center, leaving 2½ inch rim. Heat butter in frying pan. Place round of bread in pan, drop egg in center of each round. Cook until eggs are set. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and garnish with bacon. Serves 4.

Pineberry Juice.

1 cup canned pineapple juice
1 cup canned cranberry juice
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Combine juices. Mix well. Chill thoroughly and serve. Recipe serves 4.

Fruit Toast.

4 slices stale bread
4 pineapple rings
12 slices bacon
French toast batter
Jelly
Parsley

Pan-fry the bread and pineapple rings in bacon fat. Arrange the pineapple rings on the French toast slices. Fill the centers of the rings with jelly or jam. Serve with bacon slices and garnish with parsley.

Stewed Prunes.

Wash prunes with cold water. Cover and cook at boiling temperature for one hour; or place in the oven if it is in use and cook with an oven dinner. Add 2 tablespoons sugar for each cup of prunes during the last 5 minutes of cooking if you prefer a sweetened dish. Can be chilled and served with cream.

Foods Dress Up For The Party..

In a GAS REFRIGERATOR

What modern homemaker doesn't want to be known as a gracious hostess. Yet, entertaining presents the all important problem of what to serve. And here's where modern gas appliances come to the aid of your party. There's nothing like a Servel Electrolux gas refrigerator to dress up foods for party servings. You'll see this demonstrated many times during the interesting third day's program of the Gasco Food Institute when party foods take the spotlight — foods like those tempting delicacies pictured above. You, too, can prepare and serve these appetizing dishes at your parties with ease and assurance of the most successful hostess when your kitchen is equipped with a gas refrigerator.

Your "Silent Partner"

Many a hostess refers to her gas refrigerator as her "silent partner". Silent — because it operates without noise or moving parts to wear. Partner — because it freezes ice cubes and delicious frozen salads and desserts at a most economical cost. After seeing the new gas refrigerator in action at the Food Institute you'll want to visit The Gas Company and inspect a new model for your kitchen.

POLES SNIPE

Take Potshots at Nazis in Conquered Territory.

WARSAW—(AP)—Guerilla warfare continues in various sections of Poland, although the German occupation is now several months old

The Carpathian mountains are a region which lends itself well to sniping and other forms of illegal warfare. The inhabitants have the advantage of knowing every pass and valley

Around the Kielce mountains Augustow and Bialowisza too guerilla warfare continues

The German Governor Generals staff seems to suspect that this illegal activity is being conducted from a center presumably Warsaw At any rate recent arrests in the former Polish capital seem to have been chiefly those of persons who might conceivably belong to an illegal organization

Finds Tear Gas Gives Increased Fertility to Soil

FORT COLLINS Colo (INS) Tear gas the same type which police use to break up riots may be used by farmers in some parts of Colorado and other western states to wipe out plant disease organisms and increase productivity of their land in the near future

Dr. R. W. Reuszer, associate bacteriologist for Colorado State college experiment station, reporting on the gas, said it still is too expensive to be generally used but that it is being used to partially sterilize Denver greenhouse soils in which asters are to be grown.

In several eastern states tear gas already has been used for the partial sterilization of field soils where vegetables and other truck crops are produced Dr Reuszer said

"I expect the gas will be used on Colorado fields before long, particularly in truck garden areas he said

"The effect of this partial sterilization on crop production is essentially the same as a light nitrogen fertilization"

CHAPTER II

Star's father had been deserted by the mother and baby when the child was three years old. For years now Mamie had insisted that he was dead. Star knew this photograph was of some one else but she chose to forget the real name and pretend it was a picture of her own flesh and blood. She loathed the man whom she was told to address as Daddy Joe Delevan, Mamie's present husband, drove a truck at night. Star was never able to find out where nor why. His days were spent at home quarrelling with his wife. Ever since her daughter could remember, Mamie had clung to this second husband although she spent hours reviling him. Such had been Star's girlhood.

Lying staight and tense in her bed, Star could not sleep. How much longer must her life go on like this? Was there never to be any change? Surely in the beginning, her mother must have loved her, but so far as Star could see there had been little evidence of it. Even the name which Star disliked had been given to her with more sentiment than sense. Yet with what a glimmer of hope even then that the sleeping mite in her arms might lift them both to the dramatic heights of which Mamie Bright had dreamed.

Star's earliest memories were of squalor and quarrelling but there were moments when Mamie had hinted at better days. There had been a time when she had 'been somebody and had things,' she insinuated. But When Star tried to question her about it she closed up like a clam. Her one ambition was that her daughter should follow the career Mamie considered she herself had missed. From the time Star could walk she had taken dancing lessons until she flatly refused to go on with them. It was ridiculous, she insisted, to throw money away preparing for a profession she had no intention of pursuing and she worked harder than ever at her shorthand and typing determined by this method to make her escape.

But how? Clearly the time had come when the break must be made, but could a girl who had just graduated find a position paying enough so that she could live away from home? Never again would she submit to such humiliation as that she had suffered tonight. She did not cry about it, having learned long ago the uselessness of tears. But there must be a way out, she told herself, and she would keep on trying until she found it.

Morning had not lessened her resolution. She decided to go to an employment agency and register as soon as she had finished the dishes. Joe had breakfasted when he came home early in the morning. The kitchen was in its customary state of disorder with eggshells and coffee grounds all over the sink. Star made herself some fresh coffee and drank it standing at the window looking down upon the busy street. Then she plunged into her task, swallowing her distaste, bringing order into chaos which would be wasted labor just as soon as Mamie entered the kitchen. So many times Star had cleaned it, feeling as she did now. This morning seemed no different from any other until the telephone rang. She answered it fearfully. Could it be Leslie? Calling as he had promised in spite of what had happened?

It was not Leslie but Star's typewriting teacher.

"I think I have a position for you," he said.

Such commonplace words to open a new world before her despairing eyes.

"You have?" she repeated dazed.

He must have thought her very stupid but to save her life she could not think of anything else to say.

"How soon can you report at my office?" he continued.

"Oh," she answered, "right away. I'll be there in half an hour."

Leaving the dishes in a pan of soapy water, she [illegible] the kitchen [illegible] were she changed [illegible] best school dress. Her self-confidence was somewhat restored by the time she reached the employment agency. Surely with her training and experience she could find a position. She was interviewed by a severe looking woman who asked her many questions and then told her to report at the office of Mr. Beverly, a writer, at two o'clock.

"He is in need of a secretary," she explained, "and I think you will suit him. He is very particular and has had a number of girls but they have not been satisfactory. He is a writer of fiction and dictates his stories. Do you think you can stand it? Are you willing to come here and live?"

Her voice was fascinating, high and sweet, pouring out in a stream of sentences which never sounded quite finished. She was making it appear as if Star were the one to be suited instead of herself.

"I should like it very much," the girl said eagerly.

"But what will your mother think about it? Will she be willing for you to stay away from home?"

A shadow as swift as the flight of a swallow crossed the girl's young face.

"My mother won't mind. But even if she does . . . I'm 18 years old."

And determined to get out on your own just like all the beautiful heroines in my own silly books," Nina laughed. "By the way, you are very beautiful. I hope it won't interefer with your work."

Star looked at her in surprise.

"Nothing shall interfere with my work," she promised.

"Well, that's fine then. Would you like to have a look at your room? It's not very bit but you will have a bath of your own."

A bath of her own! Star trembled at the mere thought of such luxury. She followed the portly figure of Mrs. Epperson the housekeper and gasped inwardly as she gazed at the gayly flowered wallpaper, the dresser with its dainty lace doilies, the chintz-covered easy chair and adorable little desk. Through an open door was the glimpse of pink tile and a rose-colored shower curtain. It seemed too good to be true.

"It's a nice room," Mrs. Epperson said. "And Mrs. Lambert is a fine person to work for. She has some peculiar ideas but she is very kind."

At that moment Star did not care how peculiar the novelist's ideas might be. Anything would be better than the life she had been living with Mamie and Joe. But this place was like heaven! Never again would she doubt that there could be an answer to her prayers.

Nina was in the hall when they came down.

"When can you be here, Miss Bright?"

"Any time."

"Tomorrow? This afternoon? I feel an idea coming on."

"This afternoon then," the girl answered.

Eight-Vote Senate Victory Seen for Trade Program

SURVEY SHOWS BILL WILL GET O. K. IN HOUSE

Poll Based on Strength Test for Administration on Ratification Move.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—A poll of the senate by administration leaders indicated today that Secretary of State Cordell Hull's reciprocal trade program would be continued another three years by a majority of eight senate votes.

The poll, conducted by prominent senate Democrats, was based on what is expected to be a major test in the senate—a move by opponents of the program to force senate ratification of each agreement. Only the president's signature is required now.

On that question, it was said, the senate is divided, 49 to 41, against ratification. Six senators were listed as doubtful, but administration leaders said they could obtain the support of four of them if necessary.

The bill to continue the trade program three years beyond the June 12 expiration date is being debated in the house which also is expected to pass it after defeating ratification moves. A vote on that issue will come tomorrow with final action scheduled for late that day or Saturday.

In Frivolous Mood.

Although the trade agreements program had been ballyhooed as a major issue of the current session and still promises to be a key point in the presidential campaign, house debate was being carried on in an atmosphere of frivolity. Tuesday the house had to adjourn because of a lack of speakers—not a usual situation among 435 politicians. Only a handful of members carried on yesterday—one Democrat and eight Republicans being all that remained when it came time to adjourn.

For some time it has been known that the final vote in both the house and senate would be along partisan lines. The poll by senate Democrats, which has been conducted secretly for more than two weeks, listed all Republicans, the two Farmer-Laborites, and the one Progressive in favor of senate ratification of trade agreements. Hull contends that such procedure would wreck the program and be tantamount to returning to log-rolling procedure on tariff problems.

Forty-eight Democrats and one Independent, Sen. George W. Norris of Nebraska, were recorded against ratification.

Tibetan Farmer's Son Puts On Silk Robes of New Lama

CHUNGKING, China —(U.P.)— A new Dalai Lama—the chubby and precocious son of a Tibetan farmer—will be throned today at Lhasa in one of the most exotic ceremonies of the modern world.

The new Lama is Ling-Erh. He will be dressed in red silk robes and crowned with a golden crown in the ceremoniees on "top of the world." He will reign over Tibet.

Two other boys are also candidates for the throne which was vacated by the death of the 13th Dala Lama in 1933, but it was understood that the selection already had been made in fact and that Ling-Ehr had been chosen without recourse to the 150-year-old ceremony of drawing lots from a golden urn.

The new Lama was selected as a result of a vision and because he was born at almost the same hour the 13th Lama died. Followers of the religion believe that the soul of the dying ruler entered the body of the new-born child.

A Hutukhtu, or living Budda, who was a nephew of the late Lama, was appointed regent shortly after the ruler died and it was his duty to find the successor.

Up and Down THE STREET

There are still drivers in the world who believe in being prepared for any emergency. The snow and ice at curbs has been an aggrevating problem to parkers in the downtown district and many a machine has been marooned at the curb until passing pedestrians came to the rescue. Yesterday afternoon a car was parked on Park avenue west, just west of the Ohio theater, and when the driver got in, the wheels did nothing but spin on the ice. With a self-satisfied smile he got out, went to the trunk of his car, took out a big bucket of ashes and sprinkled them liberally under all of the wheels. The car started without a hitch.

George Washington's birthday doesn't mean that sickness takes a holiday, according to a woman who called police station this morning to inquire why she couldn't get an answer at the Public Health offices on the third floor of City building. Told that this was a legal holiday and that the health office was closed, she said: "What are we supposed to do? Put off our illness until the day after the holiday?"

In addition to his duties as area Boy Scout executive, Floyd Dent lately has been kept busy as a speaker, addressing scout, P. T. A. and other civic groups in Mansfield and nearby towns. Last night Dent gave his third talk this week in as many nights when he spoke to a Shelby scout group. Monday night he addressed members of a Mansfield Jewish group, and Tuesday night he spoke before a Willard organization.

The distinction of being the youngest basketball fan in the county is probably held by Sally Ann Query, 21-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Query of Shelby. Despite her age, the youngster apparently realizes what the game is all about. She constantly yells "pass ball, "shoot basket" and is especially enthusiastic when she cries "two points for Shelmy." Incidentally, her father is coach of the Shelby team.

CITY PARKS TO GET NEW TREES

Board Considers Planting of Thousands of Seedlings as Soil Erosion Project.

The city board of park commissioners today was studying a long range program of planting the parks with seedlings as a soil erosion project.

The planting program was recommended by R. R. Paton, assistant state forester at the agricultural experiment station at Wooster following an inspection of the municipal park system. It calls for the planting of thousands of small seedlings on the hillsides throughout the park system as a means of erosion control.

He suggested to Commissioners Roy Vaughn and R. S. Gibson and Frank Burton, superintendent of parks who accompanied him on the tour, that the hillsides be planted and the undergrowth be allowed to accumulate for a few years to form sod that would protect the banks.

Paton said the parks were being kept too clean and needed more of an undergrowth.

Commissioners said they planned to purchase several thousand seedlings which can be obtained from the state at small cost and follow Paton's recommendations for an annual planting project.

They hope to start the setting of the young trees this spring.

IT'S HERE AT LAST---'GONE WITH WIND' TO MAKE BOW TOMORROW

At long last Mansfield will see the picture version of Margaret Mitchell's great American novel, "Gone With The Wind" which created a furore as a novel three years ago and an even greater one as a motion picture. The movie version opens a week's engagement at the Madison theater tomorrow afternoon.

There will be two shows a day, one in the afternoon and one in the evening and each show, including a ten-minute intermission, runs about four hours. It is in fact, two features in one show, the first half dealing with the gay, indolent period of the south just prior to the war and the war itself. The second half is concerned largely with the reconstruction period of the south and the disintegration of the characters that form the central group.

The cast is an impressive one with four of the industry's biggest stars supported by a line of first rank character players. Clark Gable and Vivien Leigh play the handsome blockade runner and the hot-tempered Southern belle, while Leslie Howard and Olivia DeHavilland are Ashley and Melanie.

Heading the supporting players are Hattie McDaniels as the colored Mammy, Everett Brown as Big Sam, Varvara O'Neil as Ellen O'Hara, Evelyn Keyes and Ann Rutherford as Suellen and Careen O'Hara, Thomas Mitchell as the master of Tara, and Laura Hope Crews as Aunt Pittypat while Ona Munson plays Belle Watling.

Shows are scheduled for 2 and 8 p. m. All seats are reserved.

STILL GROWING

Giant Wadlow, 22 Today, Now Stands 8 Feet, 9 Inches.

ALTON, Ill.—(U.P.)—Robert Wadlow, known to medical science as the world's tallest man, celebrated his 22nd birthday today.

Now approximately 8 feet 9 inches in height and weighing 495 pounds, he is still growing. Since his last birthday Wadlow has added about three-quarters inch to his stature and gained four pounds.

His mother, Mrs. H. F. Wadlow, said his appetite is greater than that of the average man and that when home, he eats at the family table and sleeps in a 9½ foot bed.

The young Alton giant, now traveling for a St. Louis shoe manufacturer, probably will celebrate his birthday in Fort Myers, Fla., Mrs. Wadlow said.

FORMER STATE HIGHWAY CHIEF LATEST TO RUN

Marker Opens Campaign With Announcement at Versailles; White Eyes Comeback.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — The number of Democrats who feel capable of restoring their party to the governor's office mounted to seven today and there was no indication where the list might end.

The latest addition to the slate of announced candidates was James R. Marker, Columbus engineer and former state highway director.

Marker opened his campaign before his boyhood friends at Versailes last night. His candidacy was endorsed immediately by editors of Democratic newspapers in the fourth congressional district comprising Allen, Auglaize, Darke, Mercer, Miami and Shelby counties.

A former Ohio State university football player, Marker said he would "carry the ball for good government and the ideals of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Others who have announced their candidacies for the Democratic nomination in the May 14 primary are former Secretary of State William J. Kennedy of Cleveland, former Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy of Columbus, former Representative-at-Large Harold G. Mosier of Cleveland, James F. Flynn of Sandusky, former Erie county prosecutor; Frank A. Dye Columbus attorney and fomer high school principal, and Lawrence T. Baker of Columbus, plumber's helper on the WPA.

Former Gov. George White declared he might be a candidate if former Gov. Martin L. Davey declined to seek a third term. Davey's friends indicated he might not announce his decision until after the special congressional elections in the 17th and 22nd districts next Tuesday.

Marker, in his address, criticized Gov. John W. Bricker for "false economy" and failure to call a special session of the legislature to liberalize old age pensions. Charging that bootlegging was flourishing, he proposed taking the state out of the retail liquor business without jeopardizing state monopoly.

Democratic headquarters announced that Davey, former Lieut. Gov. William G. Pickrel, State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson and National Committeewoman Mrs. Mildred Jaster would campaign in the 17th district in behalf of Byron B. Ashbrook, Democratic candidate to succeed his late uncle Rep. William A. Ashbrook.

Addresses were sceduled in Coshocton and Newark Friday evening, Ashland Saturday evening, and Delaware and Mt. Vernon Monday evening.

Hedges P. T. A. Votes Funds to Completely Equip New Department.

A completely equipped "junior shop" will be added to Hedges school through arrangements being made by the Hedges P. T. A.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Girl Street.

Forty-sixth street, between Broadway and Eighth avenue, is Girl Street.

It is the happiest avenue in Manhattan for the tired business man or the tireless Princeton smoothie, for it has what no other street in town has—five stage doors, and girls coming out of all of them. . Showgirls, taxi dancers, floor show beauties, strip teasers, and chorines, all with slim ankles, bright mouths, long bobs and short skirts, most of them with one eye on Hollywood and the other on some trombone player in a band.

These are the unsung winners of the Broadway popularity contest, the belles with more beaux than Brenda Frazier, and sometimes with more diamond bracelets.

The five stage doors on the block divert the girls into "Du-Barry Was A Lady," Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe, the Gaiety burlesque house, "Too Many Girls" and the Orpheum Dance Palace.

Of these, the one that gets the biggest and best stage door Johnny play is the one at the Orpheum known on the campuses of Yale, Princeton and Harvard as "The Orph."

There, every 2:30 a. m. finds knots of admirers, many of them collegians and prep school students away from the ivy for the night, waiting for the dance hostesses to change from their working clothes into something for an informal drink and dance at the smarter East Side spots, where lads who rhumba with girls do so on the cuff.

* * *

DESPITE the ten-cents-a-dance aura that hangs over them in the public mind, the Orpheum girls for years have had the reputation of being more snobbish than the girls who decorate the front lines of the musical shows, and for good reason, for although the beauties in the choruses sometimes fall hardest for policemen, prize fighters and piccolo players, the Orph girls are inclined to ritz any suitor who cannot produce a copy of the social register and a wallet fattened to meet the tariff at the Stork, El Morocco and the Kit Kat.

They have been spoiled by years of Yale men to the point where their conversation is more fluent on the subject of midseason exams than who was in Lindy's last night.

The Orpheum—"O. University," as some of the collegians call it—has hit the front pages frequently since it first opened in 1918, but usually with a Cinderella story instead of a scandal.

The taxi dancers, as they do not like to be called, often surprise the editors and the home folk by marrying someone with a yacht.

In the early days a great deal of the trade came from officers waiting for their regiments to be sent to the front, and so it was natural that the first of the Orpheum's marriages should be between one of the charter-member hostesses and an army captain.

Their son, now a student at Yale, is one of the spot's best week-end customers.

Then the Orph hit the headlines again in March, 1932, when Ned Sukhvasti, the Crown Prince of Siam, then attending classes at Princeton, fell in love with Chick Baker, his favorite taxi-dancer at the ballroom, and wanted to make her his bride. The Siamese legation, horrified at the whole idea, exerted pressure and stopped the marriage, and Chick, instead of being a Siamese princess married an unfamous American and is now the mother of two children in Tulsa, Okla.

The three in this year's crop who seem destined to make news for the columns or the front pages are Betty Rubens, Grace Todd, and Rosalie Pryne, who get around to El Morocco and Monte Carlo and the St. Regis as often as any of the more East Side butterflies.

The more successful of the taxi dancers get around so much in the more platinum places that they are frequently confused with That Set by its own members. It wasn't long ago that Brenda Frazier and Bruce Cabot trekked to Harlem late one morning, and eventually found themselves in a dusky spot called Morocco, where you can stay as long as your strength does. At the next table Brenda and Bruce recognized a couple they knew, and began chatting with them. Brenda calling the girl "Rosalie" in friendliest fashion, Rosalie calling the deb "Brenda."

When they left the place Brenda asked her escort: "What is that girl's last name? I know her so well, and I can't think who she is."

"Oh, Rosalie?" echoed Cabot. "She's Rosalie Pryne, one of the hostesses at the Orpheum Dance palace!"

FAIR ENOUGH

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK: After a legal struggle lasting three months, Willie Bioff, the fugitive Chicago vicemonger and labor racketeer, has turned up in his old home town to finish a sentence of six months for pandering in 1922.

Bioff claims to have rehabilitated himself in the service of labor, with a Capital L, and poses as a martyr, done in by "the moneyed interests and Communists," which is a new combination. It is further contended on his behalf that he was but a boy of 21 when he was convicted.

The facts disagree with Bioff. He was arrested in Chicago as late at 1932, at which time he was a member of the Capone mob, and his reference from the Chicago police department as of November, 1939, said: "He is a thoroughly vicious hoodlum and has always been with gangsters."

His associates are vicemongers and gamblers. His career in the union racket was very profitable, for he is a wealthy country gentleman, with an estate near Los Angeles, and, in the winter of 1938, he sailed aboard the liner Normandie in accommodations for two which cost $2,700.

And, when he was arrested in 1922 he gave his age as 24, not 21.

Bioff never was elected to any position in the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Operators, which he represented in California, but was appointed to the position of personal representative of George Browne, the union president, after a fight between racketeers for control of this promising organization.

Browne has not repudiated him, and, indeed, has not offered a word of comment for publication on the affairs of his union since the lid blew off.

Since then—in fact only last week—Mr. Edwin Lahey, an authority on labor unions, writing in the Chicago Daily News, has offered some interesting background on another "personal representative" of Mr. Browne, to wit Nocolo Circella, alias Nick Dean, a Chicago hoodlum, stickup man and restaurateur.

"The recorded history of Nick Dean begins in 1915, when he was a callow youth of 20," Mr. Lahey reports. "In December of that year, he pleaded guilty of robbery and was placed on probation for a year. He was a busy little bee during that period of probation, sticking up joints all around town."

"In 1924," says Mr. Lahey, "Circella was arrested and was identified by William Russell, a postal messenger, as one of the members of the Fontana gang who had beaten him and escaped with $150 in currency. The disposition of this case does not appear in the records."

"No disposition," incidentally, is a routine entry in the Chicago police and court records. Why cases are not disposed of nobody apparently ever troubles to inquire.

Bioff and Circella or Dean entered the Stagehands' and Movie Studio Workers' Union about the same time, following the assassination of Tommy Maloy, a labor racketeer and extortionist, in 1935.

Since then, under the presidency of Mr. Browne personally represented by Bioff and Circella, the union has grown so large in numbers and so powerful by intimidation, that last fall Browne and Bioff made the grave mistake of trying to snatch all the actors' unions.

But the actors put up a shrill squawk, and the CIO unions in Hollywood also made propaganda against Browne and Bioff.

The American Federation of Labor however, like Ferdinand the Bull, has just sat under a tree smelling the flowers.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Sit down a minutes and I'll tell you what I think about it before I go up to your mother's room. I don't think Mr. Veritzen has anything more important to do this morning than answering your mother's summons."

"You wouldn't think so if you could see him up there," she said, and I noted with satisfaction that though there was a tinge of bitterness in her voice, amusement predominated. "He won't care how long we are, nor will she."

"Will you excuse me for a second?" I asked her as she sat down. "There is something I have just remembered that I wish to see to in my study. I shall be right back."

I hurried through the door, and as I half expected, I found Mary standing stiffly in the center of the room. I closed the door behind me and gestured firmly toward the other one. But Mary came close to me and seized my arm.

"Please let me stay and listen," she whispered. "It means so much to me."

"I'll tell you every word afterward." I whispered back, but with a "mental reservation" for some unforeseen contingency of Olina's speech. "But I can't let you stay now. The knowledge that you were listening would hamper me in talking to her. So please be a good girl and run along to your room."

She looked at me pleadingly for a second, then threw out her hands in a gesture of submission.

"Okay!" she said, and departed. I went with her to the door, and with infinite pains closed it noiselessly after her. Then I came back into the library and sat down opposite Olina.

"Now, just what is it you wish to know?" I asked her.

She looked around hesitantly.

"Mary isn't anywhere that she could possibly hear us, is she?" she asked.

"Oh, no!" I answered. "She has gone up to her room to lie down. She has a headache, and I prescribed a sedative for her. There is no one within hearing.

"Then," she said, "there is something about this business that I don't understand. Of course, I'm not a professional actress, but I've heard the best actors in the world many times, and I've been coached for private dramatics by some of the best dramatic teachers in Europe. And —frankly—I never heard anything so lifeless and stilted as Mary's rendition of those lines. You didn't teach me to say mine that way, and the way you read the lines of the other parts just now was wonderful. And yet I heard Mr. Veritzen congratulate Mary —and you—upon delivery those lines just like the others. But it just doesn't make sense to me. Is Mary going to read all her lines that way tomorrow?

A pencil of suspicion ran down my spine. I was virtually sure that I was doing the girl an injustice, but there was the chance that she might be asking this exceedingly pertinent question at the behalf of Philip Veritzen. If she were, it meant—but I would not pursue that line of thought any further just now. I had trouble enough as it was. But I resolved to give Olina no possible angle except an innocuous one for a possible report to Philip Veritzen.

"How else would she read them, Olina?" I asked with an air of infinite patience. "Mr. Veritzen himself drilled her with that rendition, and she is following his instructions to the letter. What else can she do? He knows best what he wants."

"I know what I'd do," she said rebelliously.

Recipes That Host Can Prepare

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Turn about is fair play when Leap Year rolls around. Many brave young men are planning not only to give parties for their fair friends, but to do the cooking as well! We know a group of ambitious young bachelors who recently gave a supper for the girls they wanted to impress. It was a simple but satisfying supper, with big bowls of delicious soup with lots of crusty bread and butter, and lots of celery and olives to eat with it; then a satisfying and delicious one-crust pie with a creamy filling. Even inexperienced male cooks won't find pie making a chore if they use failure-proof recipes calling for sweetened condensed milk. This way a pie to the queen's taste is a simple affair to prepare.

Here are two pies that the lordly male can easily prepare. Cherry Meringue Pie is first. It is made with one and one-third cups (one can) sweetened condensed milk, blended with one-fourth cup lemon juice, one and one-half cups sour red pitted cherries, drained (No. 2 can) and the yolks of two eggs. Pour into baked nine-inch pie shell. Cover with a meringue made by beating two egg whites until stiff and adding two tablespoons sugar. Bake in 350 degrees F. oven 10 minutes or until brown. Chill before serving.

Lemon Coconut.

For a swell lemon coconut meringue pie, blend one and one-third cups sweetened condensed milk, one-half cup lemon juice, grated rind of lemon or one-fourth teaspoon lemon extract, two egg yolks and one-half cup shredded coconut. Pour into baked eight-inch pie shell. Cover with a meringue made by beating two egg whites until stiff, and adding two tablespoons sugar. Sprinkle one-fourth cup coconut over top. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 10 minutes or until brown. Chill before serving.

We know one male cook who always makes a salad if there is any cold boiled or baked fish left over, and friend wife always sees that there is. The fish is flaked and measured. To it is added as much diced celery as there is fish. Season with salt and pepper. Add catsup to mayonnaise until it is the color of freshly-cooked shrimp. Mix with fish. Pack firmly in mold and chill. Turn out on platter with salad greens. Garnish with raw vegetables, such as onion, cucumber, radishes, green pepper and tomato.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

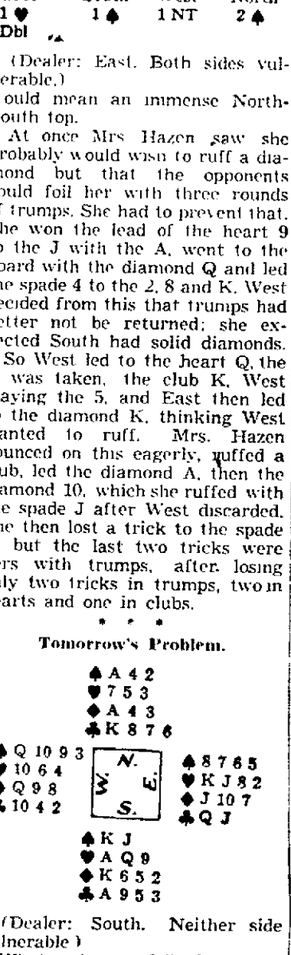
"The Authority on Authorities"

BEAT THEM TO IT

Repeated leads of one particular suit may beat your contract. You want to keep the opponents from firing it at you. How can you do it? Sometimes you have only one hope: lead the suit once yourself at the very first opportunity. This may mislead them, making them think you want to play the hand differently from what is your real intention. They may steer away from that suit and instead serve to you the very dishes you most desire.

Bidding: East, 1-Heart; South, 1-Spade; West, 1-No Trump; North 2-Spades; East, double.

Mrs. Lee Hazen in the South played this hand against two of the nation's outstanding masters in a match point duplicate. With no game in the deal, a set of one trick doubled would mean a top score for East-West, whereas making the doubled contract would mean an immense North-South top.



(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♥	1 ♠	1 NT	2 ♠
Dbl

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

At once Mrs Hazen saw she probably would wish to ruff a diamond but that the opponents could foil her with three rounds of trumps. She had to prevent that. She won the lead of the heart 9 to the J with the A, went to the board with the diamond Q and led the spade 4 to the 2, 8 and K. West decided from this that trumps had better not be returned; she expected South had solid diamonds.

So West led to the heart Q, the K was taken, the club K, West playing the 5, and East then led to the diamond K, thinking West wanted to ruff. Mrs. Hazen pounced on this eagerly, ruffed a club, led the diamond A, then the diamond 10, which she ruffed with the spade J after West discarded. She then lost a trick to the spade A, but the last two tricks were hers with trumps, after losing only two tricks in trumps, two in hearts and one in clubs.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the sound final contract on this deal?

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Feb. 23.

A RATHER conflicting state of affairs is the presage based on the predominant planetary figures. While there will be much activity, with high-tension initiative and aggressive energies under fine impetus for constructive work, there are minor oppositions or small obstacles with which to cope. The prospects are good for success in major projects if keen mentality is exercised, and backed up by strategy and tact, rather than force.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of satisfactory progress in creative and new channels, with major projects moving under fine energies and a versatile mental impetus. There may be some delays, obstacles and oppositions, but in the long run there should be much accomplishment resulting from sagacious moves, rather than force.

A child born on this day may be excellently endowed with qualities, forces and faculties for success and a productive life. Its mental equipment is of a high order, ingenious and inventive, resourceful and "canny."

FETED AT PARTY.

Edwin George Davis, 207 Penn avenue, was guest of honor at a party in celebration of his birthday which was held at his home last night. Mr. Davis was 21 Tuesday. The eight guests played bridge, and a dessert course was served with patriotic appointments being used.
